

Negro Bellhop is Held in Death of New York Girl At Asheville Wednesday

No Specific Charge is Lodged Against Joe Urey, 27; Shirt with Reddish Stains Found at His Home.

THREE CLUES

Investigators Following Three Clues in Search of Miss Cleveland's Slay.

Asheville, N. C., July 18 (AP).—Police questioned a negro bellhop today in an effort to solve the mysterious mutilation slaying of 18-year-old Helen Cleveland in her room at a fashionable resort hotel.

Joe Urey, 27, the bellhop, was detained late last night after police found a discarded shirt with reddish-brown stains at his home. Police Chief W. J. Everett said the stains would be analyzed today.

There was no specific charge against Urey. He was held "for questioning." Under this classification, he can be detained 48 hours without a charge being preferred. Police quoted two other bellhops who testified at the coroner's inquest, Durham Jones and Robert Simpson, as saying Urey went off duty at 12 o'clock Wednesday night—an hour before the New York University honor student was assaulted and slain.

The petite, blonde young vacationist was found shot to death, and her face disfigured with some sharp instrument, by an uncle, Prof. W. L. Cleveland, with whom she was traveling.

Several Guests Occupying Rooms on Same Floor as Miss Cleveland

Several guests occupying rooms on the same floor as Miss Cleveland said they heard a woman's screams about 1 a. m. The crime was not discovered, however, until 8:30 a. m. Clad in green pajamas, she lay on the floor, her legs crumpled beneath her body as if, police said, she was begging for mercy when the killer fired.

Prior to the slaying of the negro bellhop and the finding of the stained shirt at his home, investigators had announced they were following three "leads" or clues. They were:

The lethal bullet, which Coroner George F. Baker, Jr., said was of a small caliber and possibly was fired from a gun of a foreign make.

A description, though scant, of a man seen scurrying across the mezzanine into an after-midnight thunderstorm, a few minutes after the time at which officers fixed the killing.

Fingerprints on a lamp shade in the girl's room.

Police asked authorities in Washington, D. C., to make a report on a man whose name was found in the girl's address book, but later announced they had learned the man was a friend of the family.

The coroner's inquest yesterday did not turn up any new information. The jury returned a verdict only that the girl died "at the hands of a person or persons unknown."

E. B. Pittman, 22, of Raleigh, an employee of the State Bank Commission, testified at the inquest he was up late making out a report. His room was almost opposite that of Miss Cleveland.

He said he heard several screams about 1 a. m.

"I stuck my head out in the hall," he said. "I saw a light and I saw nothing. I went back, got my robe and went out into the hall."

Pittman testified there was no light from the girl's room, but in the dim reflections from other lights he saw a man, standing inside the threshold of Miss Cleveland's room door.

"I asked him if he had heard the screams. He made no answer," Pittman said. "I made some other remark about it, and then he finally said:

"That's what I was wondering about."

Coroner Cleveland of the North Carolina State College faculty in Raleigh said he began the trip around the state with his sister July 4, and that she came to North Carolina June 22 to travel with him.

Case of Trouble.

Fair Oaks, Ind., July 18 (AP).—Wife trouble and jealousy led to a slaying today in Fair Oaks, Ind., a small town of 100 people.

William G. Lewis, 47, believed to be a mining company official of Chicago and Fair Oaks, Ind., was shot and killed by his wife, Mrs. M. M. Lewis, who was 35.

The slaying took place in a small room in a hotel. Lewis was found lying on the floor, apparently suffering from a gunshot wound.

Coroner W. L. Lewis said he found three women in the room and declared the slaying was a case of jealousy.

Disease, Flood, Famine, Hang Over Mexico City

Mexico City, July 18 (AP).—A triple fear of disease, flood, and food shortage hung over the capital today after the Federal Conciliation Board held "legal" an electric power company strike which has darkened central Mexico for two days.

The Board's ruling destroyed any prospects that the strike might be ended immediately.

For four million persons living in the federal district and five adjacent states affected by the walk-out there was no ice nor electrical refrigeration to keep meat, fruits, vegetables and other perishable foodstuffs from spoiling. Milk could not be pasteurized. Water was lacking completely in 20 city suburbs, and much of the time in 14 other suburbs, with consequent non-disposal of sewage. Non-refrigerated serums and medicines were rapidly spoiling, adding to the danger of an epidemic.

The potential danger of flood, Comae Hinojosa, chief of the federal district, pointed out, lay in the fact that pumps which help rid the poorly-drained city of heavy rainfall had no current to operate them.

Predicted Rains Bring Hope to Corn Farmers, Irrigation Is Studied

(By The Associated Press)

Reed City, Mich., July 18 (AP).—Agricultural Experiment Station, Michigan, today announced a study of small irrigation works as a means of preventing future drought suffering.

Des Moines, Iowa—Local rains had predicted week-end showers bring hope to corn farmers.

St. Paul—Rise in milk prices cent a quart because of short pasturage. Heavy rain at Winona, southeastern Minnesota's first in three weeks, but no general relief immediately in prospect.

Chicago—Drooping corn of central Illinois unlikely to benefit from week-end showers and coolness in Chicago area, forecaster says. No general relief sighted for Nebraska, Ohio, Indiana, Missouri and other corn belt states. Nation's heat deaths exceed 4,464.

Scattered Rains Only.

Chicago, July 18 (AP).—Scattered rains along the northern fringes of the drought-baked corn belt served only to outline more sharply today the sun's destructive efforts elsewhere in the Middle West, where scant hope of relief was offered by forecaster.

In half a dozen northern Iowa cities and in southeastern Minnesota precipitation last night bore out meteorologists' predictions of showers and cooler weather in northern sections of the North Central States. Heat torments on human life were lessened, but the nation's total of deaths attributable to weather exceeded 4,464.

Further relief was predicted for the same areas and generally in the northern plains region over the week-end, but in sweltering Nebraska, Missouri, South Dakota, Ohio, Kansas, Oklahoma, Illinois, most of Michigan, Indiana, Wisconsin and Minnesota no alleviation was sighted.

Typical of reports from the corn-belt belt was that from Lincoln, Neb., where no sign of any possible break in the intense heat wave was seen.

H. C. Ramsower, director of Ohio State University agricultural extension, predicts 50-75 per cent corn crop loss for that state. No rain was in sight.

Missouri 100-Degree Heat.

No relief was sighted in Missouri where yesterday was 104th day of 100-degree heat. Crops in all but a few places are becoming progressively worse.

Among the bright spots was Buffalo Center, Iowa, where a brief shower fell last night. Possible heat showers were predicted elsewhere in Iowa today.

Heavy rain fell at the same time in southwestern Minnesota, for the first time in three weeks, but more typical of the state as a whole was North Dakota's all-time high temperature of 114 yesterday. Farmers seek hope from a forecast of thunderstorms and cooler weather and showers in Minnesota and the Dakotas.

Perimeter J. R. Lloyd predicted week-end rains and cool breezes for the Chicago area but was doubtful relief would extend to the adjoining corn belts of central Illinois, where such temperatures as 117 at Rome, Ill., were recorded yesterday.

Showers were forecast for lower

What is estimated to have been the largest crowd to attend a public affair in Ellenville for many years, gathered at Liberty Square Friday evening for the celebration marking the opening for traffic of the new highway over the mountain, which is to be known as the Shawangunk Trail.

Attorney Clarence A. Hoornbeek of Ellenville presided at the exercises held at the Square and received many compliments for the manner in which he handled his assignment.

Many officials and notables from Ulster, Orange and Sullivan counties were present and were introduced by the chairman of the day. Much laughter was evoked at an incident which accompanied the introduction of Congressman Hamilton Fish and Senator Desmond of Newburgh. Senator Desmond had taken the only chair in sight when the two arrived and Congressman Fish was still standing when Chairman Hoornbeek called upon him to arise and be introduced to the people present. He then called upon Senator Desmond to stand and the latter had hardly gotten to his feet when the Congressman proceeded to appropriate the temporarily vacant seat.

There was a fine representation of county and city officials from Kingston, but unfortunately Kingston men as such were conspicuous by their absence, despite the fact that the Kingston Business Men's Association at a meeting held last week or so ago went on record as favoring a general participation in the affair by the merchants of the city.

On the other hand the attendance from other cities and communities in the county was all that could be expected. The cavalcade which started at Newburgh, backed by business men and organizations of the city, was a large one and it received accolades all along the route.

Chief of the Board of Supervisors, J. H. Henton, county auditor, William Glavin, grand jury stenographer, Philip Elting, John B. Sterley and Herbert Thomas, former county treasurer.

Congressman Philip Goodwin and Mrs. Goodwin also came down for the occasion and accompanied the Kingston delegation.

All of the above were guests at a luncheon given at the Wayside Inn at 1 o'clock Friday at which were seated for about 75 persons. Senator Hoe R. Hanley was the guest of honor at the luncheon.

The program at Liberty Square at 7:30 was confined to introductions of prominent persons present, addresses by U. S. Senator Royal S. Copeland and State Senator Joe R. Haney of Perry, N. Y. and music by the several bands present.

It was feared there had been loss of many lives.

Swift Spreading Revolt Occurs In Morocco, Spain Reports Control

Government at Madrid Says Movement is Limited to Cities in Protectorate Zone and Spaniards Not Involved.

PLOT HASTENED

French Correspondents Say Plot Was Set for July 25, But Hastened by Split.

By The Associated Press

A swift spreading rebellion of Spanish armed forces in northern Morocco occurred today without warning, but the Spanish government in Madrid said it had been frustrated.

Reports that the revolt had broken out in Spain itself were denied by authorities.

In the French frontier town of Hendaye it was said a third of the Spanish Foreign Legion and regular garrison troops revolted.

Unconfirmed rumors stated fighting progressed at Cadiz, Seville, and Burgos.

Means of communication from Spain were rapidly controlled by the government.

A government communique declared:

"The movement has been limited exclusively to several cities in the Moroccan protectorate zone and no one, absolutely no one, on the peninsula (Spain itself) joined this absurd scheme."

At the outbreak of the trouble President Manuel Azana took up residence in the National Palace while the government took immediate precautions against trouble.

French correspondents said the plot, originally set for July 25, was hastened by its leaders. It was founded upon a split in the ranks of the army and police, they said, with the division over support of the Republican government.

Both Madrid and Barcelona were quiet, but absolute censorship created a tension.

The first outbreak was at Melilla, Morocco, where Col. Elitella and the entire garrison under his command forces hurried to Melilla to take charge of the situation.

Some of the reports attributed the revolt to monarchists while others said it was purely military in character.

Unrest in Spain reached a higher point early this week when Jose Calvo Sotelo, leader of the nation's monarchists, was assassinated by a group of men wearing assault guard uniforms.

Government officials denied assault guards actually had taken part in the slaying, but monarchists demonstrated, shouting "down with the republic."

"Since most of Spain's monarchists are Fascists, the authorities took precautions against further demonstrations by arresting hundreds of alleged Fascist partisans."

Rumors of an impending dictatorship have circulated freely in Spain recently as continued political and labor disorders made the government's position manifestly more difficult.

Observers were predicting that unless immediate measures were adopted to halt the prolonged series of bloodshed and insubordination, the cabinet would be forced to resign.

The main difficulty has been in attempting to compromise the differences between Spain's two most powerful labor groups—the Syndicalists and the Revolutionary Socialists of the General Workers' Union.

Each boasting a membership of more than 1,000,000 workers, the two are at odds.

The Syndicalists believe the moment opportune for a workers' dictatorship and insist on their program of "strikes-without-compromise" to bring about this end.

The Socialists, favoring a proletarian regime along Soviet lines, are amenable to compromise pending such time as they believe they can implant a Soviet form of government.

They have engaged in numerous clashes, particularly in the north of Spain, causing many lives and resulting in much property damage.

Nearly 500 general strikes and more than 1,000 partial strikes have been staged in various parts of Spain during the last three months.

The casualties in political and labor fighting since the left landed last February 14 have been estimated at from 200 to 300 killed and from 700 to 1,200 wounded.

Great Progress Reported.

Albany, N. Y., July 18 (AP).—"Great progress" in eradication of the Dutch elm disease from trees in lower New York state was reported today by State Agricultural Commissioner Peter G. Ten Eyck and Dr. W. Howard Ruskin, supervising horticulturist of the State Department of Agriculture and Markets. Commissioner Ten Eyck, returning from a tour of Westchester county, said the disease is prevalent, said "I am encouraged with the eradication program so far."

Stress of Business Delays Ouster of Gomer Smith as Director of Townsend Plan

Carter Glass Assails New Deal's Privilege and Discrimination, Hamilton Hopes Al Smith Will Aid

LaGuardia Breaks With G. O. P. Leaders

New York, July 18 (AP).—Mayor Fiorello La Guardia, elected by the fusion of Republicans and Independents, broke openly today with the Republican county leaders when he submitted the name of Adolph A. Berle, Jr., one of the original members of the New Deal "brain trust" for the office of president of the board of aldermen.

Although the mayor had announced several days ago he would make known his choice today, the Republican county leaders did not wait for him and selected Alderman A. Newbold Morris yesterday as the Republican nominee for the board of aldermen position.

"I submit for the consideration of Independent groups, Republicans and all interested in good municipal government the name of Adolph A. Berle, Jr., for the office of president of the board of aldermen," the mayor announced.

Berle is city chamberlain and is the mayor's representative in the negotiation looking toward unification of the city's transit lines. An authority on corporations, he was one of the earliest members of President Roosevelt's group of advisors.

The president, he said, "made the mistake of taking all the power that Congress was willing to give him. It is the Congress that should be blamed for abjectly surrendering its own constitutional functions and delegating them to the President of the United States and to various minor executive officials."

Declaring it to be his purpose to vote against any measure that is against my better judgment," Senator Glass added:

"Patrick Henry would not alone with me. I could envy the power of your great countryman in denouncing oppressive and unwise measures. If I had his force of speech, we might have accomplished something in the Senate without putting the Supreme Court to the trouble of deciding these matters."

WHI Seek Smith's Help.

Boston, July 14 (AP).—John D. M. Hamilton, chairman of the Republican national committee, completed his swing through New England today, expressing hope that Alfred E. Smith would give active support to the London-Knox ticket.

"Someone asked me the other day," Hamilton told a Massachusetts daily last night, "if Al Smith was going to join us."

"I hope so. We are going to have some very reputable and respectable Democrats with us in this fight."

Hamilton said he hoped soon to confer with Smith who, with Joseph R. Ely, former Democratic governor of Massachusetts, publicly opposed the renomination of President Roosevelt.

Ely has said he would support the Republican presidential ticket.

Hamilton showed the gathering of party workers a copy of a letter he said was from Gov. Leslie A. Miller of Wyoming, Democrat, to a man seeking a job as foreman in the Civilian Conservation Corps, and also a copy of an application blank which Hamilton said Miller sent to the job applicant.

The blank, he claimed, asked each questioner to "How long have you been a registered Democrat?" What service have you given the Democratic party?"

THOMAS TO SPEAK

Socialist to Speak at Convention Today, Lemke to Make Speech on Sunday.

Cleveland, July 18 (AP).—The second Townsend National Convention today swung into its fourth day with peace among its warring leaders seemingly secure until at least after adjournment Sunday.

A threat by Dr. F. E. Townsend, the movement's founder, that he would not sit with the board of directors until the ouster of Gomer Smith of Oklahoma, a board member and national vice president, drew the following statement from the board early today:

"No action will be taken by Dr. Townsend or the national board to censure any of the speakers that have appeared."

The elderly pension chief then issued a statement which read:

In view of the stress of other business of the convention, no further action will be taken regarding Mr. Gomer Smith remaining upon the board of directors until after the convention."

Other developments were:

A suit filed in Common Pleas Court late yesterday by the Rev. Alfred J. Wright of Cleveland, a deposed national director, asking removal of Dr. Townsend and other officers, and an accounting of $1,000,000 in Townsend Clubs' money which the suit charged has been "dissipated."

A statement by Robert E. Clements, who recently resigned as Townsend secretary and treasurer, that the plan was being "taken over by political opportunists." Clements' statement was contained in an interview.

An announcement that Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for president, would address the convention today, after invitations extended to Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, the Republican nominee, and President Roosevelt were declined.

Conferences between Sylvester V. McMahon, secretary of the National Union for Social Justice, and William Lemke, Union party presidential nominee who is scheduled to speak Sunday, the closing day, McMahon said Lemke also conferred with "someone from the Townsend organization" before leaving for Chicago.

A telegram to the convention from Byron Deffenbach of Boise, Townsend-endorsed opponent of Senator William E. Borah in the Idaho Republican primary, to "drop this third party presidential controversy" because four people have been taught from the beginning of the movement that the election of Townsend men—Senate and Congress—was to be the sole objective in this campaign.

The dissension between Dr. Townsend and Gomer Smith was stirred when the Oklahomaan in a platform address Thursday made a vigorous speech against Father Charles E. Coughlin, head of the National Union, who has endorsed Lemke, and the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, self-styled head of the Share-the-Wealth Clubs, and opposed affiliation with any third party.

Dr. Townsend had announced he personally favored the presidential aspirations of Lemke, and later said he would participate in a tour with Lemke, Father Coughlin and Gerald Smith. Three days before, however, the pension plan originator said he could name "at least a dozen" men he would prefer to Lemke as President.

A hectic night of marching up and down halls preceded the at least temporary peace over Gomer Smith's status. Dr. Townsend first walked to the board meeting with Gerald Smith. When he discovered Gomer was present he turned around and walked out.

The board continued later recessed while a committee called on the doctor. He returned to the meeting.

While the committee was calling on Dr. Townsend, the two Smiths, Gomer and Gerald, emerged from the room together, back on speaking terms.

"We are going to be the biggest power in this Townsend movement," said Gerald, and looked at Gomer. Gomer nodded assent. Over a glass of milk downstairs, they refused to say what had happened.

Wid to Be Requested

Tampa, Fla., July 18 (AP).—Anti-aircraft owners asked additional aid today in a search for the British battleship Nelson, 36 days overdue on a voyage from the West Indies to Tampa with 27 aboard. The 330-foot vessel left Government Grand Canyon, on July 4 and should have reached here four days later. Only a few sightings for the regular ship were carried. Coast guard amphibians flew along the southwestern Florida coast yesterday. The coast guard was ready to press the hunt today with planes and boats.

New York, July 14 (AP)—Showers in the corn belt, together with continued favorable industrial news, helped to keep the stock market on a fairly even keel today, but recovery vigor was lacking except in specialties.

A number of issues, at their best, were at new highs for the past five years. The close was steady. Transfers approximated 500,000 shares. Shares about unchanged to up around 2 points. Parking Grounds at Rear of Court House Is Being Repaired

The receipt which has been granted employees of the county court house for the past day or two in regard to parking on Wall street adjacent to the county building is by no means a permanent one but is due to the fact that the county's official parking grounds at the rear of the court house is being repaired. The one hour parking ordinance will be again strictly enforced when the grounds are reopened.

Sometime ago work was commenced on repairs to the parking grounds and on Thursday a preparation was placed on the ground to lay the dust. Resurfacing operations will be completed and the grounds will then be opened to the public officials and employees of the county departments.

Friday Officer Guernsey Burger, who is doing parking duty in the business section attached to some of the official cars the well known yellow parking tickets where the hour time was exceeded. When it became known to him that an emergency existed and the public officials were barred from the official parking space, he ceased to chalk up the official cars and permitted them to use the space south of John street near the court house. However, this courtesy will cease when the park is again open and it does not apply to the public in general.

Efforts are being made to enforce the one hour parking ordinance which applies to the uptown shopping district and Officer Burger has been doing a good job, despite the hot weather. With parking limited to one hour many more customers are accommodated in the business section and those desiring to transact business find it much easier to trade at the stores when long parking is prohibited and cars are kept moving throughout the business hours.

Some people seek to evade the ordinance by moving their car ahead a few feet after it has been chalked by the officer. This attempt to evade the purpose of the ordinance does not work too well since the ordinance prohibits parking for more than an hour on the block and a car remaining on the block for over an hour is violating the purpose of the ordinance. Others seek to evade detection by rubbing off the time which the officer chalks on the tire, but the color of the chalk used denotes the time the car was chalked, different colors being used at different hours of the day.

Rather than attempt to evade the law, cooperation by the public would greatly aid in the enforcement of the law and relieve the congestion which prevents people seeking to trade in the business section from parking for short periods.

NEW PALMS

The W. C. T. U. met at the home of Mrs. Kathryn Schoonmaker on Church street Wednesday afternoon, July 15. The president, Mrs. Morgan Coutant, opened the meeting with prayer and led the devotions. The business session followed with roll call, minutes of the last meeting and reports, communications, etc. The group was saddened by word of the passing of one of their loyal and loving workers, Mrs. Luther Terwilliger. As in former years the union is planning to fill jars of fruit and vegetables for the Industrial Home in Kingston. During the meeting it was stated in a letter to the union that the national has gained 24,000 new members since October, 1935. The August meeting will be held on the porch of the home of the president, Mrs. Morgan Coutant, and will be in form of a picnic. A short business session will be followed with the election of officers after which a general social time will be enjoyed. The leader of the afternoon program, Mrs. Ida Stephens, was unable to be present. The program was to have been a patriotic one, however, a guest, Mrs. Eugene Troutwein, helped out and favored by playing and singing "The Flag Song" and a talk on the work of things that could be done along the line of patriotic service followed. A refreshment drink of cold tea served by Mrs. Schoonmaker's daughter, was enjoyed at the close of the meeting. Those present were: Mrs. Morgan Coutant, Mrs. Hiram Relyea, Mrs. David Corwin, Mrs. Raymond Haebrack, Mrs. Webb Kalfien, Mrs. Abel Quirk, Mrs. Kathryn Schoonmaker, Mrs. Eugene Troutwein and children, Eugene, Jr., and Betty Lou Troutwein.

There is a growing demand for quality grading of meats. About 400,000,000 pounds of beef, lamb, pork, veal and sausage products were graded and stamped by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1936, as compared with 288,000,000 pounds the previous year.

Something must have happened. Only a short time ago, Chairman Parker was telling the Democratic President Roosevelt would get all the electoral votes cast in the presidential election. Now the voters are over-confident. — Somerset, Pa., Herald.

"Scottie" Cars Being Demonstrated

Ford dealers throughout the country today are using the Scottie dog, made familiar by Ford advertising, to attract attention to a demonstration which proves the fuel economy of the Ford V-8. The challenge of the Scottie "Aye, and Thrifty, Too"—may be taken up by anyone. It's only necessary to call the Ford dealer and arrange for a demonstration at your own convenience.

To establish beyond all doubt that it is unnecessary for car owners to sacrifice such desirable qualities as power, smoothness, and pick-up in order to obtain satisfactory gas mileage, Standard Ford V-8's called "Scottie" cars are now being demonstrated on a national scale, according to James Millard & Son, Inc., local Ford dealer.

The only addition to the regular equipment is a gallon glass jug in the driver's compartment and a Zenith tester. This is connected to the fuel-line, and is marked off in fractions, so that passengers may check the speedometer reading with the amount of gas being used. The final result shows the actual miles driven on a measured gallon, and local observers are reporting results that are extremely satisfactory from the standpoint of gasoline mileage. To make a "Scottie" test for yourself, it is only necessary to phone the local Ford dealer.

Gillette Reported In Fair Condition

DuBois Gillette, New Paltz lawyer, and former assistant U. S. attorney, under technical arrest for leaving the scene of an accident, Thursday, was said to be in fairly good condition at the Benedictine Hospital today.

Gillette was admitted to the Benedictine for treatment to relieve back injuries about which he complained after his car and that of Thomas E. Burke, 87 Diamond street, Brooklyn, collided on the Kingston Ellenville road at Marlborough, Thursday, about 2 p. m. He was cut on the chin.

In the collision, Christian E. Muller, riding in the Burke car, suffered a double fracture of the right arm. He is in the Kingston Hospital. His condition today was reported as "good." The Burke car was so badly damaged, the owner said he would "junk" it.

Sheriff Abram F. Moynaux was told by Burke, when he investigated the accident, that Gillette swerved his car, as he endeavored to pass on the road, and that the machine sideswiped his (Burke's). Another motorist, interviewed by the sheriff, said that prior to the crash he had been forced off the road by Gillette was arrested an hour or so after the accident by State Troopers Arthur Reilly and John Metzger. They found him on the Saugerties road in a place known as Kelly's, and took him to the Benedictine where Sheriff Moynaux placed Deputy Donald Tinnie as a guard. When Gillette has recovered sufficiently to be arraigned he will be taken before a justice of the peace on the charge of leaving the scene of an accident.

At the hospital today, Attorney Gillette enjoyed the receipt of a letter from Col. Frank Knox of Chicago, Republican nominee for vice president. He informed a reporter that the letter stated, "Now that it (the nomination) has come to me, I am grateful of the opportunity it gives me to be of further service to my party and the American people generally."

The nominee, Gillette said, further stated that he hoped his speaking itinerary would bring him in the vicinity of Kingston so that he may renew mutual friendships and acquaintances as his campaign progresses.

Col. "Knox" according to Gillette, "is one of the most forceful and aggressive speakers of the Republican campaign and it is hoped Ulster county will have the opportunity of seeing and hearing him."

The Farm Corner

Weekly Farm Paper Review

THE BEST IDEAS FROM THE BEST FARM PAPERS
By WILLARD BOLTE

A correspondent of Michigan Farmer got rid of two acres of heavy grass by growing a clean-cultivated crop of corn one year—and then planting to corn again and placing the rows between the rows of the previous year. The third year that land raised a crop of beans entirely free from grass. Both of the corn crops were cultivated twice in the row—two times over at each cultivation—with a 3-tooth cultivator run as deep as possible—and the grass that was mixed was hood out.

More than two million farms in this country will have manure piles of various sizes out back of the barn all summer—where they leach, rot, blow away—and hatch billions of flies. The man who would be horrified at the thought of dumping a hundred dollars worth of commercial fertilizer or 800 bushels of good oats out in the rain, thinks nothing of letting a hundred dollars worth of nitrogen and phosphorus escape from his manure every season. New York City Experiment Station reports that, at present market prices for commercial fertilizers, manure (liquid and solid) produced in 12 months and promptly spread is worth: Cow, $25.35; horse, $23.40; 125-lb. hog, $8.51; 100-lb. sheep, $1.17. They piled fresh cow and horse manure out of doors on April 22 and left it until October 24th. Then they analyzed it a second time—and found that it had lost half of its weight and a third of its plant food.—Hoard's Dairyman.

The splitting off of apple branches can be entirely done away with by a plan that has been tested by the University of Illinois. The idea is to plant well-grown year-old trees without any lateral branches. After the tree is planted remove all buds up to two feet—leave four buds at that height—four more buds eight inches higher up—and leave the whip alone. The following spring you make your framework by selecting the best branches. Pick those that spring from the trunk laterally instead of upright, as it is the upright branches that split under a heavy load of fruit.—Prairie Farmer.

Cabbage and other plants that are started in flats should be blocked out—by cutting the soil between the rows with a butter knife—a week before removal to the field. This practice not only permits you to lift out a clean block of earth with each plant but also causes the roots to branch. Field-started plants should be lifted with a trowel or spade to hold as much soil on the roots as possible. In transplanting, the hole for each plant should be deep enough to permit planting a little deeper than the plant stood in the flat, and the root should never be doubled up.—American Agriculturist.

Harvesting wheat with a combine originated out where the fields reach to the horizon—but the introduction of the small tractor and the small combine is rapidly pushing this method of harvesting toward the Atlantic coast. Kansas offers a promise of what may soon be happening in Pennsylvania. For years farmers in eastern Kansas stuck by the old methods—binders and binder twines and extra hands to shock and load and stack—big threshing crews and waiting for the threshers. But this year Kansas Farmer estimates that more than two-thirds of the 125 million bushels of Kansas wheat will be harvested by combines.

Out in Iowa the Maple Creek Turkey Farm markets 400,000 turkeys annually. They buy the eggs—paying up to 15¢ each—incubate nearly 600,000 eggs with a hatching percentage of about 68—and sell the poults to contract raisers at about 50¢ each. Average loss in the hands of the farmers who raise their turkeys is 15%. Raisers are required to keep the poults in confinement for two months—then move them to movable yards on range and change to clean range every eight to ten days. If the turkeys are not in market finish when bought back from the farmer, they are put on a fattening ration consisting of 1,100 lbs. of ground corn—400 lbs. of wheat middlings—100 lbs. of wheat flour—300 lbs. of bran—and 200 lbs. of meat meal.—Poultry Item.

For quick pasture there is nothing to equal sudan grass, in the experience of W. D. Zinn of the Pennsylvania Farmer staff. He states that dairymen will do well to sow this annual grass for summer pasture. It grows as high as five feet in two months of favorable weather. Sudan should be sowed on soil rich in nitrogen—planted at the same time as corn. It will make two crops of palatable hay—but should not be pastured or cut for hay after the first frost, because it then is poisonous.

For maximum potato yields it is necessary to spray the vines with Bordeaux mixture at frequent intervals—using two nozzles that spray from beneath and one to spray the tops of the leaves. A correspondent of Wallace's Farmer has made a home-made spray rig that can be operated by one man. His nozzles are mounted on the end of a board projecting at the back of a special wagon having the wheels only three feet apart. The top nozzle can be raised and lowered independently. He uses a hand-operated barrel pump and changes the position of his spray nozzles as the plants get larger by using longer pieces of iron pipe.

If you want to keep your hens laying during the high-priced summer period, you must feed them in such a way that they do not lose weight. This means constant access to a laying mash containing at least 20% of animal protein—plus sufficient scratch grain to keep the flock going at top speed. An ideal summer scratch ration consists of equal parts of whole yellow corn and wheat—fed the evening at the rate of 10 to 12 lbs. per 100 hens.—American Poultry Journal.

The production of baby beef right on the farm has become a widespread practice throughout the corn belt. The most profitable plan is to carry the cow on pasture in summer and cheap roughage plus a little legume hay in winter—and finish the calves on a minimum of roughage and a maximum of grain. The cow will require 1 to 2 acres of pasture—3 to 3½ tons of silage—and ½ ton of alfalfa hay. The calf will eat 35 bushels of corn and a little less than ½ ton of alfalfa hay. Under average conditions 4 to 6½ acres of good average land will carry a cow and market a calf. If the calf sells for 8¢ and weighs 850 lbs. the gross return on this acreage would be slightly more than $16 per acre.—Breeder's Gazette.

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

It seemed mighty queer to go down the bay the other morning without having my cutter pass inspected by Matthew P. Cassidy. He had been doing that for so many years that it seemed an absolutely essential part of the trip. For the first two or three years, he not only made the sign my name on the back every trip, so that he could check up on the handwriting, but also made me show my police card. The government is careful concerning cutter passes. It has to be or it would be running a free ferry down to Quarantine and there wouldn't be any room for the customs and immigration officers and the public health service doctors. In Mr. Cassidy's mind, his duty to the government was always uppermost, so he took nothing for granted and overlooked nothing. Not only did he check passengers as they boarded the cutter, but also after the boat got under weigh. If he found a phony, he talked to the captain with the result that there was a stop at Rosebank, on Staten Island, and the intruder was put ashore.

When the cutter reached the liner for which it was bound, Mr. Cassidy was always the last one to climb the ladder or cross the plank. He inspected and counted every one who went aboard and until that was done he remained on the cutter's deck. Then he went up and with his associates, became busy with the declarations of passengers. In the course of time, he became known as "Old Reliable," and as has been indicated, lived up to that name faithfully. For 45 years, he served in the customs. In that time, he boarded more than 35,000 liners and traveled many thousands of miles on Coast Guard vessels. But he never went to sea in a ship. Last week he reached the age of seventy and with that came compulsory retirement.

In all those years, Mr. Cassidy met practically every celebrity in one way or another, that came to these shores. He also had considerable to say about who met the celebrities, as none could board the liner until he gave the word. Observation brought the conviction that celebrities were merely passengers to him. His only concern was that all the customs requirements were met and he always saw to it that they were. Every newspaper man who ever covered ship news knew him. But he made them show their passes just the same.

With repairs to existing bridge paths and the opening of some new ones, the prominent citizens who enjoy early morning cantering in Central park are out in force these days. The sport was recently given a revival with an English hunt breakfast and everything. Of the various riders, Jefferson Seligman, the banker, is the dean. He has been riding around the paths at dawn for the last half century. Various attempts have been made to cut down the bridge paths and even to abolish them but the horse lovers have so far won out in their fight to maintain them.

According to a report that just reached my desk, that Rockefeller Center had discovered a way to make women's hair give off light in the dark had occasion the other night to put his invention to practical use. A true blow in his fashionable salon and left the place in darkness. So he got out wigs he had treated and obtained illumination in that manner. No radium is used in the treatment though the effect is said to be the same.

Ocean Will Yield Vast Supplies of Magnesium

New York.—Scarcity of magnesium deposits in the United States has caused scientists to turn to the ocean for this mineral, valuable to man's health and to industry.

"Limitless supplies of magnesium recovered from the ocean," the American Chemical society said, "will strengthen human resistance to cancer and other diseases."

Commercial recovery of minerals from the sea, for centuries the goal of science, is proceeding on the east and west coasts of the United States. Invents for anti-rust gasoline is being extracted off the coast of North Carolina, the society reports. Production of magnesium from sea water is increasing at South San Francisco.

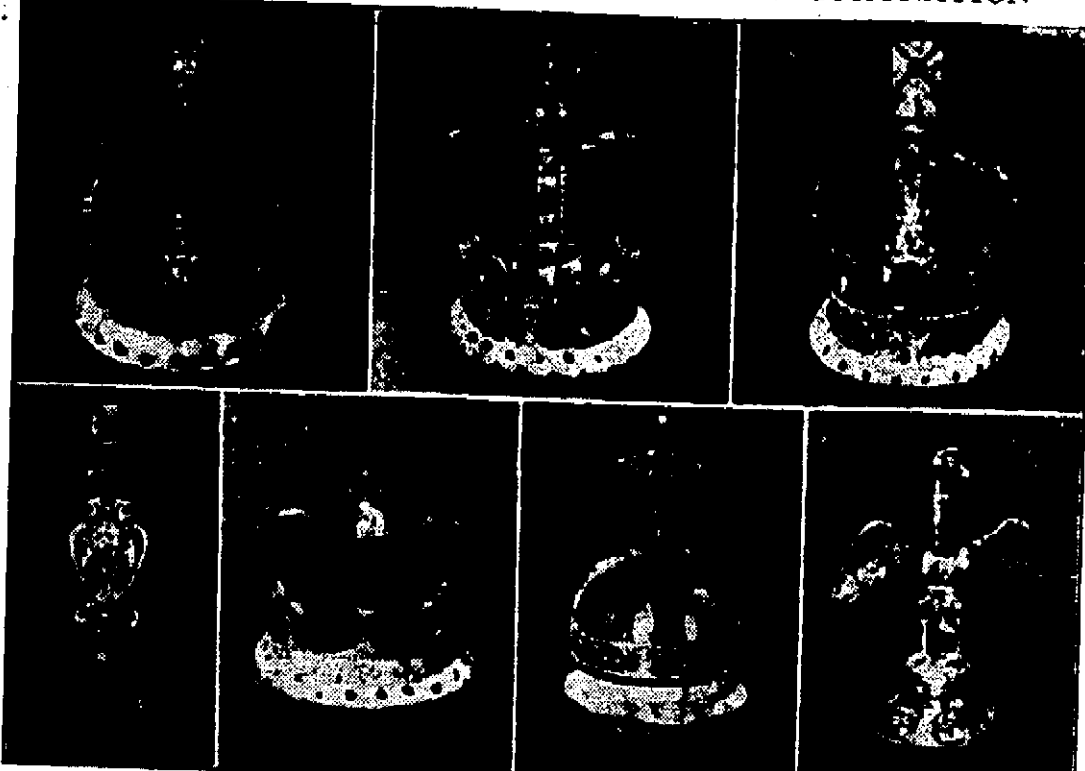

The production of magnesium sulfate, it is believed, will open new fields for their use medicinally.

Clever Lad Builds His Own Telescope

Passaic.—Here in the lap of the famous Mt. Wilson observatory is a seven-year-old youth, whose hobby is building telescopes.

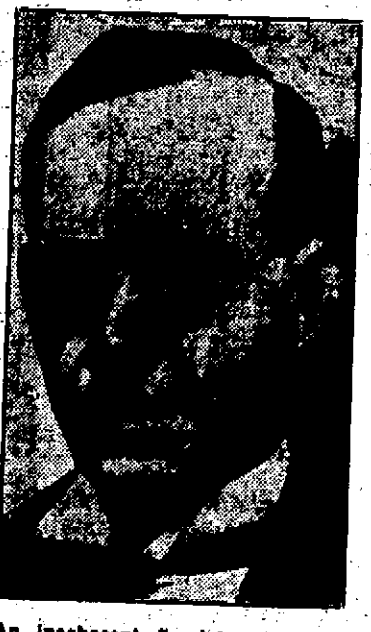

Dick Cole built his first reflector by gluing paper's shaving mirror and using some cardboard tubing and a Christmas tree stand. His latest effort, built for the Passaic Junior Astronomical society, which he founded among Junior high school students in a more expensive six-inch reflector. It cost $2.00. It is smart enough to reveal comets.

WILLOW

Willow, July 18.—On Wednesday, July 15, the "Win and Work" Society of the Willow M. E. Church held its regular semi-monthly meeting at the residence of Mrs. August Hagermeyer. About 25 attended and much sewing was accomplished for the church. This party is held each year at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. MacKenzie.

The garden party this year will be held on Friday, August 7, from 2 o'clock in the afternoon until 10 p. m. This will be the sixth annual garden party and each year has proved more of a success than the previous one, both financially and socially. Everyone is cordially invited to come and bring their friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lewis have opened their home for the summer and are entertaining their son, Ralph, also Dr. and Mrs. Roy Lewis and son, Arthur, from Philadelphia.

King May Be Forced To Change Habits

London, July 18 (AP).—Scotland Yard officials, torn between a desire to please their sovereign and their duty to protect him, decided today King Edward would have to be induced to change his habits.

An authoritative source, reflecting public anxiety over the attempt on the king Thursday, indicated pressure would be brought to induce Edward to give up his strolls on the streets.

Instead of being able to mingle with his subjects, Edward probably will be forced to travel about London in an automobile as his father, the late King George, always did.

George Andrew McMahon, who disturbed the empire with his attempt against the king on Constitution Hill, was questioned again following medical attention.

It was understood he stuck to his story that he never intended to shoot the king but that he threw his revolver at the mounted monarch as "a protest."

With King Edward's coronation less than a year away, authorities determined to remove all danger of future incidents similar to that on Constitution Hill.

The king, however, was known to dislike being hedged in by guards, preferring to move informally among his subjects as he did when he was Prince of Wales.

Forest Fires in County Are Reported To Be Under Control

District Ranger Furch and his assistants, D. R. Hillson, John Addis, Fred Wood, Davis Williams and Fred Andrews, have been kept busy this week with a number of forest fires.

Mr. Hillson was in town this morning and said that all the fires were at present under control. The latest one broke out in the neighborhood of the Eagle's Nest, near Hurley, about six o'clock Friday evening, but was not serious.

The fire which started Tuesday in the St. Josen neighborhood on the Shawangunk was reported under control Friday morning, although still being watched in case of further outbreak.

The blaze, which started on the mountain opposite the Napanoch Institution, was taken hold of in time and did not get very far.

Friday men were called out to fight a fire near West Saugerties.

Mr. Hillson says that many of the CCC boys have worked at fighting the forest fires, having come down from the camp at Tannersville and an equal number from the Margaretville camp.

Drove His Car With 1930 License Plates

George Crispell, 21, St. Remy, arrested Friday at 5:20 p. m. by Patrolman Ernest Boss and Clarence Brophy for driving his Fiat car with 1930 license plates, and on three other charges, was fined an aggregate of $15 this morning in city court by Judge Bernard A. Callahan.

The four charges on which Crispell was arrested were: Driving with 1930 license plates, driving without a chauffeur's license or operator's license, no certificate of registration and operating a car with defective brakes.

Britain's Heroine

The praise of a grateful British empire went out to a small woman dressed in grey, whose name remained a secret, for her prompt action in busting down a gun held in the hand of a man who pointed it at King Edward VIII. She is shown in this picture, sent by radio from London to New York, as she left the scene. (Associated Press Photo)

Desmond Is Added To Candidate's List

Albany, N. Y., July 18 (AP).—While Republican leaders proceeded with plans for the party's state convention here in September, the name of Senator Thomas C. Desmond, of Newburgh, was added today to the growing list of candidates for the G.O.P. gubernatorial nomination.

Suggested by the Middletown Times Herald as the party's nominee for governor, Senator Desmond said "I am grateful to those who think me worthy of this high honor and opportunity for greater public service" but pointed out that the "New York state Republican party contains several men who would make good candidates for this office."

Mayor Rolland B. Marvin, of Syracuse, who last week announced himself openly as a candidate for the nomination, appealed to members of the state committee last night to support an "open field" policy for gubernatorial aspirants at the state convention.

Marvin said he was sending a letter to all committeemen warning them "that any attempt by any group of leaders to foreclose the field and to pledge the party organization to any candidate in advance of the convention would be a serious mistake, dangerous to Republican prospects of success."

Today only Marvin and his fellow-townsmen, State Senator George R. Fearon, Senate minority leader, have openly announced their candidacy for the gubernatorial post, but Supreme Court Justice William F. Bradley, of Yonkers, also has been frequently mentioned in connection with the nomination.

State Chairman Melville C. Eaton said at his home in Norwich where he is residing that he had received no reply to an invitation extended to Colonel Frank Knox, Republican vice presidential nominee, to deliver the keynote address at the state convention here.

Say! who reads the ads anyway?

There they are, next to the play-by-play dope on the ball game, cutting off the news of So-and-So's engagement party so you have to jump clear to the middle of the next column to finish it. Those ads! You know who runs them, their signatures are on 'em—but who reads 'em anyway? The printer? That's right—but shucks, he's paid to! And the advertiser—sure, he reads them to see if the paper got the prices right. Who else? What's the great American ad-reader look like? Who reads the ads? Let's solve the mystery . . . and see!

This fellow's income is way above the average; there are not many like him, we'll admit. Retired from real estate last year; survived the depression nicely, thank you, and will be back from Bar Harbor in September. Gets a kick out of picking up $7 shirts for $2.79 by waiting for the sales. Reads the ads—not every day—but wouldn't think of buying without checking the price and quality against every value in the paper.

Remember her debut party? She'll be back at Smith's in the fall; right now she's pretty busy, what with the little car a Freeman ad helped sell her Dad, the places all the crowd goes to (they say the boys pick them from the Freeman), and the show her club gives every summer. To date she's tracked down material for costumes, arranged for tickets, and has practically closed a deal with a florist . . . all through the Freeman!

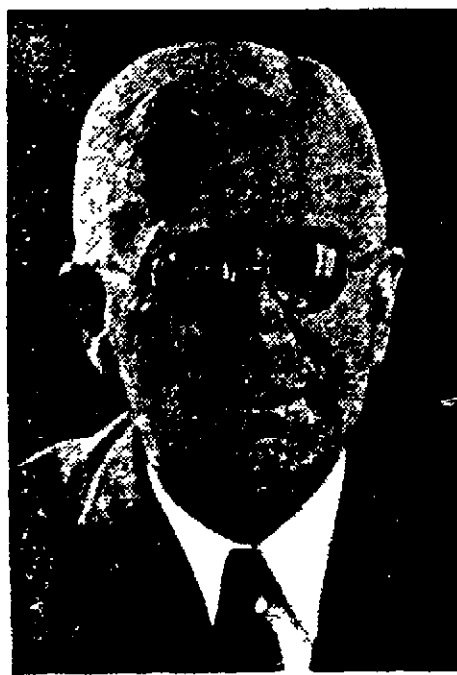

She likes to say that the children are grown up and out of the way now . . . but just watch her smile when she sees an ad for print wash frocks . . . size 2 to 6! Keeps a gift list that touches almost every day of the calendar, and half the dates are for children! Entertains a lot, too, and manages to belong to quite a few of the clubs. Proud of her home, and not a bit unwilling to take advantage of a bargain for it when the Freeman backs it up!

Here is a pretty complete little world, of course. Two children, a busy young husband, a new house . . . a little domestic that's pretty hard to crash. But she's made the Freeman a welcome intruder. Where else, she asks, would she find the same help in keeping a not-too-big budget straight . . . how else could she keep the house looking newly furnished on so little . . . what other source would be so obliging about tipping her off on dozens of sales every day.

Still prefers the comics, but graduated into the ad reading class last year, when he decided he wanted a prep suit like the one his buddy, Charlie, got. Has since found quite a few things he's going to own some day. Sold on one make of bicycle right now, and a certain page of the Freeman has a way of popping up in a prominent place each night about the time that Dad's due home.

Belongs to a number of the city's service clubs, has kept a good business going for a number of years, and has a son who's going into the business some day soon. Makes a hobby of his place up at the lake, and won't let a gun or tackle ad out of his sight till he's read it all the way through. Finds the Freeman ads a good indication of business conditions in the city . . . as well as an effective medium for his own business.

Still in school, but looking forward to the day when he can buy his first car. Just at present quite satisfied with the buys he finds in sporting goods in the Freeman. Interested in what the well dressed young man should wear, and willing to do a little research in the subject. (It's whispered that she lives just a block or two away.) Working the family pretty hard for the trip west that he read about in an ad in the Freeman.

Had a tough time a couple of years ago. He found a job through the "Skilled Workmen" section in the classifieds, and he and the wife have been reading the ads for a reason or another ever since. First it was the new furniture they needed when the stopped "doubling up" with her folks. Then they needed a used car, and right now, the things look better at the plant and their another nest egg laid away, they're looking for another house.

Pretty shrewd, this youngster? Kind of hated to leave the city and go back to the farm, but he's managed to combine the advantages of both places in just a few short years. First saw the radio he now owns in a Freeman ad. Installed a bathroom after a Freeman ad told him how inexpensive the fixtures would be. Found that he'd save time by trading in the old truck on a light pick-up that a Kingston dealer advertised. And he saved money on the reaper that he picked out of the want-ads!

Not too many free hours in her life! But the Freeman makes every one of them so double duty, when she starts off on a shopping tour. Clothes have to be smarter, to make up for hours spent in a uniform; cosmetics have to be better, to give her right impression; everything she buys must get by a scrutiny-like inspection on perfection. She learned back in her student days that she could rely on Freeman ads, and she's learned since that she can depend on them to save her off-duty time!

It's a date! And that, as any bright young member of Kingston High will tell you, means a trip through the Freeman ads. It may be for some new home . . . for a place to have the white coat cleaned . . . for something really different to wear if it's a dance. But whatever the occasion, it's reason enough for a trip through the ad pages, especially when it's almost as much fun as a shopping expedition, and saves the strain on next week's allowance.

"You wouldn't catch me reading the ads—just a waste of my valuable time." Ah, but puts us in a bad spot. Your phone may have gotten in here by mistake. Sorry! Hey, wait a minute! . . . that the you're on . . . didn't we see that jitters ad about a week ago? Uh-huh . . . well, thought so!

The answer, of course, can be briefly told; everybody reads the ads each day in

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Back to work in a picture after nearly a year on the stage, Eleanor Powell is likely to be "discovered" all over again. In her case the usual procedure with a new star could not be followed. Instead of rushing her into a second film to reap the rewards of her work in "The Broadway Melody of 1936," the studio had to release her to prior theatrical engagements.

But New York—and Hollywood's balletic—have kept the Powell name in the limelight, so the studio fears little that its dancing star will go unrecognized at the box-office.

Dances Dance Routines
Eleanor Powell, energetic as ever, still "dances while she sleeps." There was not too much opportunity for sleep when she was engaged on her first film effort last year, and the usual long nights on the set. But when she did sleep, she always kept a note pad and pencils beside her bed.

"I've found," she says, "that many dance problems that bother me during the day are solved while I'm sleeping. Subconscious mind, you know, I don't want to investigate it too closely, for fear the dance dream would stop."

It works this way:
"For one of the numbers in 'Born to Dance,' I just couldn't seem to get the correct finish. I fell asleep that night still worrying about it. About 5 in the morning I was 'dancing' a finish that seemed to work out perfectly. At once I awoke. Usually when this happens I jot down the idea and continue with my sleep, but this time it was so important I put on my slippers and tried out the idea before marking it on the pad."

Dances in Bed
"Often, too, instead of taking time to draw a diagram of how the step is executed, I catalogue it in my mind by giving it a name that will bring the whole routine back to me. For instance in naming one step I remembered that I had knocked over the reading lamp in climbing out of bed—thus it became the Broken Lamp step."

Eleanor's mother contributes—in further enlightenment on the sleep-dancing proclivities of her daughter—that the girl sometimes actually tap-dances while slumbering. She knows because she hears the slight tapping caused by bare feet hitting against the bed's footboard. This, fortunately, doesn't happen often—it is an aftermath of unusually hard rehearsals, Eleanor believes.

But Eleanor's good old subconscious is only about 50 per cent efficient.

"Just about half my 'dance dreams' result in dance routines," she says.

Events Around The Empire State

Albany, N. Y., July 18 (AP).—Col. E. C. Carrington took his bride, the former Alice Preston, of Baltimore, for a ride today on one of the Hudson river boats he used to operate. The Colonel and his bride, who were married in Baltimore in February, embarked on the S. S. Trojan here last night for the trip to New York. Colonel Carrington formerly was president of the Hudson Navigation Company, which owns the Trojan.

Blue Mountain Lake, N. Y., July 18 (AP).—Harry Williams, who said he slowed away on a ship to come to the United States from Cardiff, Wales, and became an Adirondack guide, will have a birthday tomorrow. He said it will be his 111th.

Watertown, N. Y., July 18 (AP).—A crop damage in Seneca county of half a million dollars was forecast today by Fred B. Freestone, president of the Seneca Farm Bureau. He estimated the county's crops are 40 per cent of normal. They have been without rain for 11 weeks he said.

Spring crops have been ruined, pasture lands dried up and hay just being harvested, is being fed to cattle, Freestone said.

Only an immediate rainfall of adequate proportions can reduce the 40 per cent estimated loss, he declared.

Freestone said that prospects for the apple harvest also were poor in Seneca county.

Nichols, N. Y., July 18 (AP).—The bodies of Margaret Jackson, 3, and her sister, Sarah, 7, drowned in the Susquehanna river when they waded beyond their depth as the older girl tried to teach her sister to swim, were recovered last night in four feet of water.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 18 (AP).—The New York State Veterinary Society will meet next year in New York city for its annual meeting. At its 1936 meeting here yesterday the society elected Dr. Charles A. Zepp of New York, as president.

Albany, N. Y., July 17 (AP).—State Agriculture Commissioner Peter G. Teasdale placed the facilities of the milk control division at the disposal of milk producers and dealers today as a clearing house for information on additional sources of high class fluid milk.

The commissioner said he made the offer because the drought had caused a milk shortage which opened to plant operators and producers an opportunity to divert their milk to the more lucrative "cream line" or fluid milk market.

Chenango, N. Y., July 18 (AP).—A course in practical automobile driving in every high school in the country within five years is the prediction of Albert W. Whitney, associate general manager of the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters.

Whitney said work among school children in safe driving since 1932

CHARGED WITH DRIVING WHILE INTOXICATED

Bower Mathias, 58, of Temple, Pa., was arrested at New Paltz by Corporal Baker and Trooper Klein on a charge of operating a car while intoxicated. He was brought to the Ulster county jail and held for a hearing today before Justice I. C. Barnes of New Paltz.

Finley Pays $30 Fine.

Earl Lewis Finley, 28, of 25 Adams street, was arrested in the town of Ulster early this morning by Sergeant Cunningham and Trooper Keefe on a charge of driving a car without a license. He was arraigned before Justice Walter Webber, who imposed a fine of $30 or 30 days in the county jail. He paid the fine and was discharged.

Rosendale Township Association Meeting

Rosendale Township Association will hold a regular monthly meeting in Firemen's Hall, Monday evening at 8 o'clock. There will be reports of various committees and the secretary of the information booth of the association will make a short report.

An additional feature of the evening's meeting will be supplied by E. B. Hotchkiss, manager of the New York Telephone Company in Kingston. Mr. Hotchkiss will show a talking motion picture, "Ship to Shore Telephone Service," and also a film "The Use of the Telephone in Radio Broadcasting." These films are of unusual interest and the broadcasting film shows the various ways in which the telephone is used in the great national hook-ups.
